Vintner's Cellar: Never settle for a mediocre bottle of wine again

Wine is staple of life. But let's face it, the difference between buying good wine and buying great wine can be expensive.

The solution is Vintner's Cellar Saskatoon (146-1824 McOrmond Drive). Wine is their passion and they make great wine affordable to enjoy.

"What is unique about our store is the products we carry," explains Kathryn Thompson, co-owner with her family (including her husband, brother and sister-in-law). "We carry over 60 varieties of wine including our 100 per cent pure juice products. All of our pure juice products are exclusively sourced and distributed from Vintner's Cellar."

Choose your region, grape and favourite blend, and cask it at a fraction of the price you would pay in retail. This means that a Malbec from Chile, a Pinot grigio from California, and the limited reserve wines are all available to be made at home or at Vintner's Cellar.

"This isn't the old-school homebrew wine — it really tastes like a $15–20 dollar bottle of wine," says Thompson.

Wine connoisseurs can also join Vintner's Barrel Club where groups of 10 people or more can start any large batch of the wine and then age it to perfection in a large oak barrel. The results are an even smoother, full-bodied taste that adds to the pure juice quality of brewing with Vintner's Cellar.

Whether you're new to wine or the neighbourhood sommelier, stop into Vintner's Cellar and taste why great wine doesn't have to be expensive.

When is a box not a box? When it's locked. That makes it a mystery. What's inside? Solve the puzzle and find out. In the case of Breakout Escape Rooms (805 48th Street), this metaphorical box is an entire room that is filled with more locked boxes and you're stuck inside.

If you've never been to an escape room before the concept is simple: One team, one room, and one hour to solve all the clues and escape the room. Not every clue is a locked box. Many of the clues use magnets and electronic mechanisms to unlock everything from secret compartments, hidden panels, and more clues.

"I love puzzles," says Roberta Alton, owner and master escape designer for Breakout Escape Rooms. "I got into this business because I became addicted after playing a few rooms. It was becoming an expensive habit so I got to the point where if I couldn't play more escape rooms then I might as well build them myself."

Currently, Breakout Escape Rooms features three games: Dead Professor Society, Code Red: Infiltration, and The Madd Laboratory. If none of those games sound like your cup of tea, than just wait a few months until they gut each room and rebuild them into something completely new.

"We are Saskatoon's only truly local escape room because we build and design all of our own games. Some of the other places buy their rooms as pre-made packages or purchase their props overseas. What also makes us different is that all our rooms are private so you don't have to worry about playing with strangers" says Alton.
